This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

"THE BECKWITHS."

BY

PAUL BECKWITH.

There are but two biographers who can tell the story of a man's life. One, the person himself, the other, the Recording Angel. The autobiographer cannot be trusted to tell all the truth, though he may tell nothing but the truth, and the Recording Angel never allows his book to leave his own hands.

SIR HUGH DE MALEBISSE.

"Sir Hugh de Malebisse, held lands, time of William the Conqueror," is all that Domesday Book tells us of this valiant old Norman knight, for valiant he must have been, or few broad acres would he have possessed in those days, when men encased themselves in iron shells, and struck hard with sword, lance and club. When arms and armor hung conveniently near, for outside one's own castle gate there generally was a chance for blows; and if we would know the men of those days we must look for them under helmet and shield, founders of a feudalism felt even unto our day. Their lands, acquired at the sword's point, were held only as a price of valor in the service of their sovereign.

At the time of the invasion of England, the Normans had lost all traces in language and manners of their northern or Danish origin, and though but little love existed between them and their French neighbors, still it was in Normandy that the French language had acquired its greatest polish and elegance. As the more essential attributes of body and mind are not so easily shaken off as language and conventional manners, the Normans were distinguished from the other natives of France by their stature, fair complexion, abstemiousness and moral qualities; we can, therefore, well imagine Sir Hugh, tall of stature and fair of complexion, a type that distinguishes so many of his descendants, even unto our day, as he stood in 1066 upon the shores of England, eight hundred and twenty-four years ago, and with his warrior companions, vowed by the aid of Madame St. Mary (the patroness of Norman chivalry) to carve with his good sword an Earldom or a narrow resting place, which even England could not refuse her valiant invaders.

Toward the end of the eleventh century, wild times as they were, a glimpse of an approaching civilization was seen in the erection by the nobles of frowning castles and costly abbeys. William the Conqueror, who with a single frown made England tremble, rebuilt at his own expense, the superb Abbey of Jumieges, where the Cleric found learning and the poor man bread, on condition that the church should be under the invocation of the Mother of God. He assisted in person, with the Duchess Matilda, all his great Norman Barons and their retinues, at the dedication July 1st, 1068, and who knows but that Sir Hugh may have been a spectator, and may have accompanied the Conqueror some years later when he crossed the sea to Normandy, in order to be present at the dedication of the Church of "Our Lady of Bayeau." It was at this time, probably, that the Duchess Matilda paid homage to Saint Mary of Bayeau, by presenting that celebrated tapestry in which her patient needle had invoked the great epoch of the conquest of England. This drapery, "embroidered with figures and inscription," was hung the whole length "of the nave of the church," says an inventory of the treasures of our Lady of Bayeau, drawn up in 1476. The tapestry of Bayeau enables us to see in battle and in camp these rough and rugged warriors, pioneers of a dawning civilization.

The work, even of the needle, was rude in those days, still we can see there the men who fought at Hastings, and here we find Sir Hugh, in a "leather coat of tough Bull hide," covered with metal rings, sewn upon it, touching at their circumference, not interlaced, as in chain mail, for chain mail was as yet unknown. The coat and breeches one piece with a flap at the breast to admit the wearer, a casque of steel, gilded and painted, shoes and gloves of leather, legs protected by sheepskins fastened with leather straps, armed with an embossed shield bound with iron and covered with leather, upon which the arms were painted, a long spear and broad-bladed sword, and so appeared Sir Hugh, and his warrior companions.

Sir Hugh de Malebisse had three sons. Richard, the eldest, was witness to the charter of Albert de Rainville. Galfred, the youngest, willed all his lands to God, Madame St. Mary and the Monastery of Newbo, in 1142, and became the first Prior. Sir Hugh, the second son, married twice; through his second marriage he became Lord of Knyveton; his first wife, Emma, daughter of William de Percy, one of the great and powerful Norman barons (ancestor of Harry Hotspur). Sir Hugh lived in the reign of King Stephen, 1138, and had issue, four sons and one daughter, as follows: Hugo, Richard, Sir William, Sir Simon and Matilda.

Hugo, the eldest, was Chief Justice of County York, and married twice; his second wife was Lady Beatrice, Lady of the Manor of Wykes, County Cambridge; she founded the Priory of Spinney, during the reign of Henry the Third, and died without issue, his lands passing to his brother, Richard de Malebisse, Lord of Ancaster, Knyveton and other estates. He lived during the time of Richard, the Lion Hearted, and possibly accompanied him to the Holy Land. He was Chief Forester of Galles, Derwent and Wonerdale; Chief Justice of County York during the fourth year of the reign of King John. In the second year of the reign of Richard the First, he paid 20 pounds to be Forester, as he had been in the time of King Henry. He paid, first year of King John, 5 pounds for the farm of Gueltres, and founded in 1198 the Monastery of Newbo, in Lincolnshire, of the Order of Praemonstatensis, and "gave to God, Madame St. Mary and the Abbey of Newbo," of which his uncle Galfred was Prior, all his lands in the village of Newbo, with the Churches of Ancaster and Knyveton, and, also, other lands. He had three sons. Robertus, the eldest, whose line became extinct in the second generation; Richard, Lord of Beningworth, the youngest, died without issue; John, the second son, confirmed the grants his father, Richard, had received from Morton Grange to the Abbey of Newbo in the fourteenth year of the reign of King John.

John de Malebisse founded the de Malebisse branch of our family, which became extinct in the eleventh generation, on the marriage of Elizabeth de Malebisse to Adam Beckwith, Lord of Clint, in 1379.

The de Malebisse family, if we are to judge from munificent gifts to abbeys and monasteries, were wealthy and prominent, connected by marriage with many of the noble families of England. Many were High Sheriffs and Chief Justices, in those days offices of high importance, filled only by the more prominent nobles of the county. They were Lords of several manors or estates.

Sir Walter de Malebisse mortgaged his Manor of Scalton Castle to William Fairfax, on going to the Holy Land, on a pilgrimage to the Holy Sepulchre, as was the habit of the nobles of those days, in fulfillment of certain vows; he made Richard Fairfax, son of William, his heir in case he did not return; this Richard Fairfax, son of William, married the daughter of Sir Thomas de Malebisse, brother of Sir Walter, and, as Richard Fairfax afterward appeared on the records of Yorkshire as seized of the lands and Castle of Scalton, it is to be presumed that Sir Walter never returned from his pious pilgrimage.

Sir Simon de Malebisse, Lord of Cowton in Craven, fourth son of Sir Hugo de Malebisse, married the daughter of John Lord de Methly. It was his son, Sir Hercules de Malebisse, who, in 1226, married Lady Dame Beckwith Bruce, daughter of Sir William Bruce, Lord of Uglebarby, which lordship and other lands he had inherited from his ancestor, Sir Robert Bruce, of Skelton Castle, the progenitor of the Royal Bruces of Scotland. It is from this marriage that we derive our name. Lady Beckwith Bruce possessed, by inheritance, an estate or manor of land, called "Beckwith," in the old Anglo-Saxon "Beckworth," from "Beck" a brook and "Worth" an estate. With a view, evidently, to the perpetuation of the name, required her husband, by a marriage contract dated 1226, to assume the name of Beckwith.

Sir Hercules de Malebisse was Lord of Cowton in Craven, inherited from his great-grandfather, Sir Hugh the Norman, Lord of Clint, and by his marriage with Lady Beckwith Bruce, Lord of Uglebarby, and of the Manors of Beckwith and Beckwithshaw. He was succeeded by his son, Sir Hercules de Beckwith de Clint, who married the daughter of Sir John Ferrars, of Tamworth Castle, who by marriage into the House of Marmion inherited by tenure of the Castle of Tamworth the high office of Champion of England.

Hamon Beckwith, grandson of Sir Hercules, was seized of the Lordships of Clint and Uglebarby, and the Manors of Beckwith and Beckwithshaw, took upon himself the coat of arms of John Lord de Malebisse, in 1339, in proof of descent, presented to the Earl Marshall of England the marriage contract of his great-grandfather, Sir Hercules de Malebisse to the Lady Beckwith Bruce. The decision of the Earl Marshall, dated 1339, is still to be seen (1868) in the Herald's Office. The marriage contract reads as follows:

"Be it known to all Nobles, where this present writing shall come, be seen, or heard; whereas Hamon

Beckwith, son and heir of Nicholas Beckwith, was named by the Earl Marshall of England, by a process that was datied from the aforesaid Marshals Manor of Reayssing Castle, in the County of Norfolk, Jan. 18th, in the tenth year of our Sovereign Lord, the King, in the year of our Lord, 1339. That the said Hamon Beckwith, should usurp and take unto him a coat of arms, which was appertaining unto John Lord de Malebisse, for which better use by virtue of this process, we charge you, that you will appear at the new Mansion House of Saymore, before us and bring with you all such evidence and records of arms, that we may allow, grant, and set our hands to your teste and posterity forever, and also that your appearence will be the 14th day of October, next coming, in the aforesaid year above written. And the said Orator did appear at the said day appointed, and did bring with him such evidence, whereof one piece dated from the 10th year of Henry the 3rd., which was in the year of our Lord 1226, from one Hercules de Malbie, the son of Simon de Malbie, Knight, who married the Lady Dame Beckwith Bruce, one of the daughters of Sir William Bruce, Lord of Uglebarby, and certain other lands in Pickering, that the said Hercules de Malbie, should change his name, or else his coat, and his posterity forever; and so it was what the said Hercules de Malbie changed his name from de Malbie to Beckwith, and did hold his coat, whereof I the said Earl Marshall Peter Mawlam, Lord od de Luke, Lord Chamberlain to our Sovereing Lord, King Edward 3rd, and Henry Lord Percy,

Sir Robert Boynton, Knt., and Sir William Acton, did see and allow it in proof, and the said coat to be his own lineally descended, whereof we have our hands and seals, to the aforesaid teste, the day and year above written, in the presence of many."

Sir Hamon Beckwith had numerous issue, three sons and four daughters. William, his heir, was seized of the Manors of Beckwith and Beckwithshaw, in the 38th year of the reign of King Edward the 3d, and married the daughter of Sir Girard Urfleet, Knight of Wighill, in Co. York, who commanded a Knight's retinue at the battle of Agincourt in France. Of Thomas, the second son, nothing is now known; probably he died young. John, the fourth son of Hamon, purchased lands in Scough; his line became extinct in the next generation, on the marriage of his daughter Ann to George Rowdon, Esq., of Rowdon and other fair possessions. John Beckwith was a stout man-at-arms, and was with King Henry in his French wars; he was at the siege of Harfleur and at the battle of Agincourt, his name with those of other gentlemen, in the list of men-at-arms under Sir Girard Urfleet, at the battle of Agincourt. From the following document, this worthy scion of our family received 24 cents a day for his military services: "The awards to be made by King Henry, to those who are to accompany him into France, to serve one year, and that they should receive, every Duke 13sh. 4d., every Earl 6sh., 8d.; every Baron 4sh.; every Knight 3sh. a day if the voyage extended into France, every Esquire and man-at-arms (gentlemen who served under the orders of a Knight), was to receive for his wages, 12 pence (24 cents), and every archer 6 pence a day, and for every thirty men-at-arms, a reward of one hundred marks a quarter, and if the voyage extended to Guienne, each Duke, Earl and Baron, and Knight, was to receive as above, every man-at-arms forty marks, every archer twenty marks." Doubtless this doughty warrior fought noble, and with the rest of the English army, before the battle of Agincourt, kneeling, asked the blessing of the Almighty on their arms, and stooping placed in their mouths a morsel of earth, in remembrance, it is conjectured, of their mortality, as a contemporary has it.

William Beckwith was succeeded by his son Thomas of Clint, in the fourth year of the reign of Richard the Second; he held the Manors of Magna Otringer and Huxley near Thursk, and married the daughter of John Sawley of Saxton. Thomas Beckwith was succeeded by his son Adam Beckwith of Clint, who married Elizabeth de Malebisse, and thus reunited the two branches of the Malebisse family, after a separation of over three hundred years. Sir William, the eldest son of Adam Beckwith, married a daughter of Sir John Baskerville, and was succeeded by his son Thomas Beckwith of Clint, who by marriage with the daughter and co-heiress of Wm. Haslerton, became Lord of the Manors of Filey, Muston and Thorp, which his wife had inherited from Havisia, the daughter and co-heiress of Ralph de Neville. Thomas Beckwith of Clint had five sons; Thomas, the eldest, and Adam, the fourth, died without issue. Sir William, Knight, of Clint, the second son, married twice; by his first wife, daughter of Sir William Plumpton of Plumpton, had issue, but his line became extinct in the next generation. Robert Beckwith, the fifth son, married the daughter of Lowenthorp of Lowenthorp, and was the founder of the greater portion of the Beckwith family in England. Many of his descendants have filled important public offices, and whose names figure prominently in the military, judicial and civil history of England; space will not allow a more extended reference to these branches of our family, other than to refer to the body of this work.

John Beckwith, third son of Thomas of Clint, married the daughter of Thomas Radcliff of Mulgrave, and was succeeded by his only son, Robert Beckwith of Broxholme, in the 8th year of the reign of Edward 4th. He, in his turn, was succeeded by an only son, John, who inherited the Manors of Clint and Thorp, and lived in the 8th year of the reign of King Edward the 4th; he left an only son, Robert Beckwith of Clint and Thorp, whose will was dated Oct. 16th, 1536, and proved Mch. 24th, 1537; he married Jennet and had issue. Robert, the eldest son, died young; Marmaduke of Dacre and Clint, the second son, sold the Manor of Clint that had been in the family since 1226, and bought the Manors of Featherstone and Acton, Yorkshire; he married twice; by his first wife, Ann, daughter of Dynley of Bramhope, had eleven children; Thomas, the eldest, inherited Acton and married Frances, daughter and heiress of William Frost of Acton; he had three sons, Thomas, the eldest, of Acton, to whom we will presently return; William, the second son, was baptized at Featherstone Castle in 1571, emigrated to America in 1607, landing at Jamestown, Va., with Captain John Smith from the ship "Phœnix;" he married in 1616, and had but the one son (and a daughter), Henry who was born about 1619, and who settled in Dorchester Co., Maryland, there founded a family, many of whose members have been prominent in the political, civil and military history of that county, and whose descendants are still living on the old homestead.

To return to Thomas Beckwith of Acton (son of Thomas), he married Barbara, daughter of John Millburn of Hinderskelf, Co. York; he had numerous issue; of Thomas his eldest son, his line became extinct in the second generation; of the next five children nothing is now known; his seventh son, George Beckwith, was baptized at Featherstone Mch. 29th, 1610, and emigrated to Maryland in the year 1648, in company with Secretary John Hatton and others. He landed at St. Marys. George Beckwith represented in the line of primogeniture the Beckwith family, as far as known, and the author of this work, in the line of primogeniture, is his last male descendent.

We must now return to Marmaduke Beckwith of Clint and Dacre, and find mention of Mathew Beckwith, who is possibly the Mathew Beckwith who is first recorded at Saybrook Point, Conn., in 1635, and the ancestor of by far the largest, numerically, of the American Beckwiths and whose descendants are to be found in every State of the Union, Canada and the Sandwich Islands.

We will return once more to Marmaduke Beckwith of Clint and Dacre, whose third son, Roger Beckwith of Northcot and Aldborough, married twice; by his second wife, Susannah, daughter of Brackenbury of Tellahay, he was succeeded by his son, Author Beckwith of Aldborough, a captain in the Parliamentary Army, killed 1642 in battle; his eldest son, Roger Beckwith, was knighted and created a Baronet of England by Charles the 2d in 1681. He married twice, and died in 1700; by his second wife Elizabeth, the daughter of Edward Jennings, he had two sons; the second son, Marmaduke, emigrated to Virginia about the time of his father's death, and eventually succeeded to the title; he was then living in Virginia.

Line, and served throughout the Canada Expedition, and is now sixty years old; he was a farmer in Ludlow, Hampden Co., Mass., where he was born in 1758; he was afterward a laborer without family or means of support, except by public charity; has no property of any kind or description, except his necessary clothing; is old and infirm, and by reason of palsy deprived of sight and speech; physically and mentally incapable of taking care of himself; his pension certificate is now in our possession, and dated May 30th, 1818, No. 11,149.

TIMOTHY NAST,
ABEL BURR,

A committee of the poor of the Commonwealth of Mass.

Nehemiah Beckwith, born in Dorchester Co., Md., 1762; enlisted in the Continental Army, September 1781, for four months; served in the select militia under Capt. Staplefoot until 1782; re-enlisted 1782 in Capt. Spadden's Co., serving until 1783, and received pay for fourteen months' service.

Nathan Beckwith; at Waterford, Conn., 1820, appeared Nathan Beckwith, and says he was born in 1747; a sailor by profession; enlisted in the Continental Army, December, 1775, for one year, in Capt. Sill's Co., Col. Parsons' Reg., and was discharged at Peekskill, N. Y., January 1st, 1777.

His family now consists of his wife, Patience, sixty-nine years old, and one grandchild, Samuel Beckwith, aged nine. The schedule of his property is as follows: One cow and calf, pledged to pay his rent, valued at $30; other personal property, $65.31; and he says he owns neither house nor lands.

Niles Beckwith; at Lempster, N. H., 1818, appeared Niles Beckwith, a farmer, and says he was born in 1753, and enlisted in the Continental Army, May 1st, 1775, at Mistict, Province of Massachusetts, for three months, as a private in Capt. Stiles' Co., Col. Starke's Regt., N. H. Line; was then drafted into Rigmont's Reg., and served eight months, and was discharged; re-enlisted in Capt. Scott's Co., Col. Sargeant's Reg., and marched to Castle William, below Boston, and remained there until Independence was declared; then marched with his regiment to New York, and was taken in Col. Hatton's Reg. of Rangers, and remained until taken prisoner by the British at Fort Washington; was placed in irons aboard a prison ship for fifteen weeks; was then paroled and returned home. His family, in 1820, consisted of his wife, aged fifty-eight; his children, Lonine, aged twenty, and Nelson, aged thirteen, non-compos mentis. In about 1819 he moved to Unity, Cheshire Co., N. H.; the schedule of his property amounts to $89.37.

At Lempster, N. H., September 19th, 1838, appeared Jemima Beckwith, seventy-seven years of age, widow of Niles Beckwith, who died February 20th, 1821, and says they were married December 6th, 1778.

At Lempster, N. H., September 28th, 1838, appeared Warren Beckwith, who says Niles Beckwith moved to Unity, Sullivan Co., N. H., shortly before he died.

Certificate of marriage was dated Lempster, N. H., December 6th, 1778, between Niles Beckwith and Jemima Wedge.

Perry G. Beckwith; at Bronson, Huron Co., Ohio, March 2d, 1871, appeared Perry G. Beckwith, and says that he was born in 1796, and enlisted from Greerson Co., N. Y., May 1st, 1814, in Capt. Freeman's Co.,

Col. Porter's Reg., and was discharged at Buffalo, N. Y., November 8th, 1814. He married Della Springster, September 15th, 1824, and died at Olney, Ill., September 15th, 1824.

Phineas Beckwith, born at Lyme, Conn., in 1735; enlisted in the Continental Army January 15th, 1777, in Capt. Lee's Co., Col. Durkee's Reg., for the war; was promoted to the rank of sergeant. He joined his regiment April 30th, 1777, and served until October 20th, 1780, when he was promoted to ensign; his commission (now on file in pension office, 1889) reads, "to take effect from January 13th, 1781," in Capt. Spalding's Co., and was discharged November, 1782. By trade he was a saddler. In 1818 he became blind; his family at this time consisted of wife, Huldah, aged sixty-nine years, and one daughter, Lois, aged fifty-nine, still living with him; his other children have long since left him, and gone out into the world. He was still living in 1818, then aged eighty-three.

His commission in the Continental Army reads as follows: "Phineas Beckwith commissioned ensign 1st Connecticut Regiment from the 13th day of January, 1781, the sixth year of our Independence, and signed Thos. McLean, President of the Congress of the U. S. of America."

Rice Beckwith, born Lyme, Conn., November 20th, 1757, and served in the Continental Army from 1776 to 1780 in Col. Wynkoop's Regt., N. Y. Line, as follows: In 1776 he resided at Manchester, and enlisted from New Lebanon Springs in Capt. Vishyh's Co., and served until 1777; was discharged at Kinderhook, N. Y.; he again enlisted and marched from New Lebanon Springs to Kinderhook, Sunday Hill, Fort Ann and back to Lebanon, and then to Kinderhook, and was there discharged in 1778; he then volunteered in Capt. Oder's Co., Col. Allen's Reg., and served until December, 1778, and was then drafted into Capt. Smith's Co., Col. Allen's Reg., Vt. Line, serving six months; re-enlisted March, 1780, in Capt. Barney's Co. for one month. At the expiration of his last term of enlistment he returned to Manchester, where he resided until 1800, and then moved to Plattsburg. He says his brother, Grant Beckwith, also served throughout the war in the Continental Army.

The above papers were filed by George M. Beckwith, acting chief clerk of Common Pleas of Plattsburg, and Daniel Beckwith appeared as a witness.

Richard Marmaduke Barnes Beckwith; at Charleston, Jefferson Co., W. Va., June 10th, 1871, appeared Sarah E. Beckwith, and says she was born in 1796, and that she is the widow of the above, who enlisted in 1814 in Capt. C. Wills' Co., and served until August 14th, 1816; that her maiden name was Sarah E. Hite, and that they were married September 13th, 1813, by the Rev. T. Mathews, at Charleston, W. Va.; her husband died at St. Louis, Mo., about 1818, leaving a son, George W. H. Beckwith, now living at Charleston, Jefferson Co., W. Va.

Richard Beckwith; at Batavia, Genesee Co., N. Y., May 15th, 1878, appeared Jane Beckwith, who says she was born in 1814, and is the widow of Richard Beckwith, who volunteered at Batavia, N. Y., August 31st, 1814, in Capt. Godfrey's Co., Col. Churchhill's Reg., for three months' service; he was discharged at Fort Erie, September 16th, 1814, on account of sickness. He was, at that time, five feet six inches tall, light hair and complexion and blue eyes, and that they were married October 11th, 1841, by Adam Reid; her maiden name was Jane Porter, and that Richard died at Batavia, N. Y., June 21st, 1866.

Robert Beckwith; at Norwich, Conn., May 2d, 1871, appeared Robert Beckwith, who says he was born in 1794; that he was a seaman in the War of 1812, on board the schooner "Mars," commanded by Capt. Noah Buckley, and sailed under letter of marque. The "Mars" was captured by the British frigate "Shannon" with all on board, while off Cadiz; he was held a prisoner of war for eighteen months, part of the time at Millsville Island, and sixty days as a hostage on board the British ship "Lucaro," and was paroled at Halifax, N. S.

Roswell Beckwith; born at Lyme, Conn., October 21st, 1753, where he resided until forty-one years of age, then moved to Westerlo, Albany Co., N. Y., and again to Cazenovia, N. Y. For many years was a Baptist minister in good standing. He enlisted December, 1775, in Capt. Sells' Co., Col. Parsons'

Reg., for one year, entering actual service January 1st, 1776, and was stationed on the heights overlooking Boston, and could see the British soldiers parading the decks of their vessels in the harbor as if preparing to land, then they dropped down the river evacuating Boston. He assisted in erecting the fortifications, and marched back to Lyme by way of Providence, R. I., where the regiment embarked and sailed for New York, joining the Army under Gen. Washington; he retreated with the Army to Long Island, where he was discharged. He then re-enlisted in a company commanded by Capt. Knowlton to serve "by day and night, by land and by water, open or secret service," and was captured and taken prisoner at Fort Washington, by the British and marched to Harlem, and then with other prisoners sent to New York, and placed in irons on board the prison ship, the "Dalton" until February, when the prisoners agreeing not to bear arms against England until regularly exchanged, were allowed to go home; he returned to Lyme on parole until exchanged, in 1780, but owing to feebleness from long confinement in the prison ship, did not re-enter the service, until he was drafted at the burning of New London. In 1832, he was still living, age seventy-eight years.

The application of Roswell Beckwith was sworn to before Barak Beckwith, judge of the Common Pleas of Madison Co., Conn.

Rufus Beckwith; at Chelsea, Orange Co., N. Y., 1861, appeared Rufus Beckwith, who says he was born in 1764; and enlisted at Alstead, Cheshire Co., N. H., in 1776, in the 1st Reg. of Volunteers, Capt. Nathan Fay's Co., for nine months' garrison duty, at Fort Otter Creek, Vt.; he marched through the wilderness to Fort Pittsfield and was mustered into the Continental Army by Major Tolman; at the expiration of ten months was discharged.

Attached to this application was an old faded leaf of a Bible, upon which was written the following:

Rufus Beckwith; born May 12th, 1764; Thankful Sadie, his wife, January 1st, 1790 (probably date of marriage); Sammie, born December 18th, 1791; Josiah, born May 20th, 1793; Edward W., born September 15th, 1798; Rufus, Jr., born December 20th, 1800.

Samuel Beckwith; at Hartford, Conn., July 18th, 1833, appeared Samuel Beckwith, who says he was born at Lyme, Conn., in 1755. That he and his brother, Roswel Beckwith, were both taken prisoners at Fort Washington by the British, and that he did not return home until January, 1777.

Samuel Beckwith; at Lyme, Conn., June 7th, 1843, appeared John Lay, who says he was born in 1764, and that he knew personally Samuel Beckwith, who enlisted May, 1775, for seven months' service in Capt. Sells' Co., Col. Parsons' Reg., and that he marched to Roxbury and was stationed there until discharged, about January 1st, 1776; he re-enlisted in the same company for one year, and was stationed at New York, and was discharged there, January 1st, 1777; he then enlisted in the sea service, and was at the capture of the East India ship "The Lovely Lass," and made a heavy purse from his share of the prize money. He was taken prisoner several times, once in Rhode Island, and once in New York where he was placed on board of a prison ship for a long time. He married Polly Greenfield before he returned home, and that he afterward joined Capt. Moody in a government ship, and was drowned at Lyme, May, 1800.

At Lyme, Conn., June 7th, 1844, appeared Polly Beckwith Tinker, who says she was born in 1760; that her maiden name was Polly Greenfield, and that she married Samuel Beckwith, June, 1781; that he died at Lyme, May, 1800, and in December, 1818, she married Joseph Tinker, who died November 28th, 1836.

Seth Beckwith, born at Waterford, Conn., October, 1758; enlisted, 1778, in the Militia, Capt. Bebee's Co., and was drafted into the Continental Army for six months, in Capt. Thompson's Co., and was stationed at Fort Trumbull, assisting in the building of that fort; was discharged April, 1799. He was again drafted July, 1779, in Capt. Wait's Co., for four months; was stationed at Long Island Sound, east of Niantic bay, where he was discharged July, 1780; was again drafted to go in pursuit of British soldiers, who had made their escape from the prison ships, then lying in New London, and who were secreted around in the country; the militiamen succeeded in recapturing most of them, returning them to prison; he was then placed on guard duty at the prison. He was subsequently drafted several times, serving short terms of service aggregating ten months.

At Waterford, Conn., September 18th, 1837, appeared Esther Beckwith, who says she was born in 1762, and is the widow of Seth Beckwith; that her maiden name was Esther Leach, and was married November 14th, 1781; that her husband died at Montville, Conn., March 15th, 1839.

At Waterford, Conn., September 23d, 1839, appeared Grace Beckwith, the widow of Elisha Beckwith, and says she was born in 1764; that her maiden name was Grace Leach, and is the sister of Seth Beckwith's wife; that Seth's children were: Hester, born October 16th, 1782; Joseph, born January 25th, 1785, and Rupel, born December 27th, 1788.

Seth Beckwith; at Easton, Ionia Co., Mich., December 14th, 1871, appeared Elizabeth Beckwith, who says she was born in 1787, and is the widow of Seth Beckwith, who served sixty days in the War of 1812, in Capt. Tallmadge's Co.; at that time he resided at Martinsburg, Lewis Co., N. Y., and was stationed at Sackett's Harbor during the years 1812–1813. He again enlisted for three months as a substitute for one Elijah Soule, who was drafted. Her maiden name was Elizabeth Butler, and they were married November 6th, 1806; he died at Easton, Mich., June 5th, 1856.

Silas Beckwith, born at Lyme, Conn., in 1746, enlisted in the army with his team to haul provisions from East Harbor Landing to Boston, and had command of several other teams; acting as train-master for three months. He then, with his family, moved to near Albany, N. Y., and was selected by the Committee of Safety of Albany to take charge of thirty-five men to go north and join Gen. Schuyler's command, then stationed a little below Albany on the Hudson river. He, with Sergeant Butler and twenty-five men, went up the river, and were drawn into an ambush by the Indians; after a skirmish with them they retreated to Albany without the loss of a single man, carrying with them the only man wounded. He was then commissioned by Gen. Gates a captain in Col. Van Ness' Reg., Conn. Line; was at the battle of Stillwater, September 19th, 1777, and was discharged at the expiration of his nine months' enlistment. In 1778, he was again selected by the Committee of Safety of Nobletown, Albany Co., N. Y., to take charge of thirty men to join General Washington at Valley Forge; he reported to General Pierson upon his arrival, who advised him to be "noculated" for the small-pox, then very bad in the army, after which he lay sick in the hospital for a long time; getting better, he was placed in a wagon and followed the army; having a relapse, was discharged as unfit for active service. He knows of no one who could testify to the above, except his father, Benjamin Beckwith. After the war he moved to Indiana, and then to Crawford Co., Ill., where he resided in 1833.

At Crawford Co., Ill., December 14th, 1837, appeared Benjamin Beckwith, and says that his father, Silas Beckwith, has lived with him for the last fifteen years, and is now old and infirm, and that his mother died in 1834.

Thomas Beckwith, born at Lyme, Conn., April 3d, 1759; enlisted in the Conn. Militia, September 9th, 1776, in Capt Say's Co., Col. Parsons' Reg., the 3d Conn. Line, called the "Governor's Guards;" remained on duty at Lyme until discharged, January 10th, 1777; re-enlisted January 15th, 1777, to go to New London, in Capt. Lay's Co., Col. Thorp's Reg., Conn. Line; remained there four months, and was discharged; volunteered, April, 1777, for two months, State service, in Capt. Bebee's Co., Col. Thorp's Regt., and was stationed at New London until discharged; re-enlisted, July 1st, 1777, in Capt. Palmer's Co., Col. Ely's Regt., for six months; marched with his company to Norwalk, and there embarked on board a schooner for secret service to surprise the British Fort at Brookhaven, L. I.; the Americans were themselves surprised by British vessels of war, who captured one boat and drove the others to land; after a weary march through the wilderness arrived at New London, and was discharged, January, 1778; was drafted into Capt. Davis' Co., Col. Latimer's Reg., 3d Conn. Line; was stationed at Fort Griswold for four months, and was discharged, May, 1778; again enlisted; this time on the State brig Defiance, mounting sixteen guns, and manned by one hundred and twenty men; Seth Harding, captain, and Nehemiah Whitney, surgeon; cruised to the Bermudas for one month, and in that time captured two ships, with which the Defiance returned to New London, and after refitting returned to the same cruising grounds for three months; were chased home by a British man-of-war; was then discharged December, 1778; drafted in 1779, and served three months in Capt. Hempstead's Co., 3d Reg., Conn. State Troops; he then, at the expiration of his enlistment, entered the naval service on a privateer vessel for one year. In 1832 he was still living at Batavia, N. Y., aged seventy-three years.

Timothy Beckwith; at Waterford, Conn., 1820, appeared Timothy Beckwith, who says he was born at Waterford, Conn., and enlisted from that place into the Continental Army, for the war, May, 1777, in Capt. Richards' Co., and served until the end of the war, and was discharged at West Point. By occupation a laborer; his wife Lydia is fifty-three years old; their children are as follows: Livonia, age fourteen; Timothy, age ten; Cynthia, age eight, and says his property amounts to $6.06 in value, and that he owns neither "house nor lands." He married Lydia Newberry, late of Waterford, May 19th, 1789, who was born in 1760, and lived to be ninety-seven years old; Timothy died May 27th, 1825, and Lydia, his wife, May 3d, 1857.

At New London, Conn., July 27th, 1838, appeared Hannah Burrs of Waterford, seventy-seven years old, who says she is a sister of Timothy Beckwith.

At New London, Conn., July, 1839, appeared Newberry Beckwith of New London, and Desire Beebee of Waterford, children of Timothy Beckwith and Lydia, his wife.

William Beckwith; at Waterford, Conn., June 9th, 1871, appeared William Beckwith, who says he was born at Waterford, Conn., 1774, and married Amy at Waterford, in 1793; and that he served in the War of 1812, for thirty days, in Col. More's Reg., 3d Conn. Line.

William Beckwith; at Morgan Township, Morgan Co., Ohio, 1832, appeared William Beckwith, who says he was born in Frederick Co., Md., in 1758, and that he enlisted at Frederick, Md., in the Continental Army, August, 1776, in Capt. Slay's Co., Col. Battle's Reg., for six months; after serving his term, he re-enlisted at White Marsh Crossing for one year, in Capt. Camp's Co., Col. Green's Reg.; was at the battle of White Marsh, where Capt. Bailey and half of his company ran away, the remainder and Capt. McLane, contending with an overpowering force of the enemy, fought their way back to White Marsh, after leaving half their men dead and wounded. He was at the battle of Chestnut Hill, under Gen. Green, which lasted from noon to dark; was at the battle of Germantown. After the battle of Germantown, the British lighted their camp fires, and the Americans then went into camp; William had just put a cake of dough into the ashes to bake when an advance was ordered, and he was obliged to eat his cake raw, only to find upon their arrival at the enemy's lines that they had retreated. His command arrived too late to participate in the battle of the Brandywine. All the pay he ever received was one month's pay, $8 in Continental currency. His company was ordered to quell the Tories, who gave much trouble in and around Frederick. He was born in Frederick Co., Md., on Rock Creek, twelve miles from Washington, D. C., and lived there until he moved to Morgan Co., Ohio.

Benjamin Beckwith says he is a brother of William Beckwith, late of Morgan Co., Ohio, who died October 27th, 1836; his wife died a short time before; they had three children: Richard, Tobias and Rebecca; Richard left his father's home years ago and was supposed to have returned to Md.; Tobias died, and Rebecca is the only surviving child, and is thought to be living in New York.

Solomon Beckwith says he is the son of Benjamin and nephew of William, and that he knows that William is dead, that Tobias is dead, and believes that Richard is dead, and that Rebecca is the only surviving child of William; Richard left home about 1819, or shortly after they moved to Ohio; Tobias died in Morgan Co., and that Rebecca is living in New York city.

William W. Beckwith; at Cleveland, Ohio, May 1st, 1879, appeared Dr. C. Marell, who says he formerly practiced in Huron Co., Ohio, and knew William W. Beckwith and his family, and that William died at Brunson, Huron Co., Ohio, August 19th, 1861, aged about sixty-five years, leaving a widow, Ann Beckwith, who moved to Cincinnati, Ohio.

At Cleveland, Ohio, April 29th, 1879, appeared Ann Beckwith, aged 81 years, the widow of William W. Beckwith, who was in the War of 1812; enlisted in Capt. Gale's Co., N. Y. Militia, Woodsworth's Brigade, and that her maiden name was Ann Herrick.

At Cleveland, Ohio, 1879, appeared Dr. David H. Beckwith, who says he is fifty-three years old, and is a son of William W. and Ann Beckwith; that his father just before his death, was five feet eleven inches tall, had light blue eyes and light complexion, with dark hair; that his father died August 19th, 1861.

At Cleveland, Ohio, April 19th, 1879, appeared Dr. Seth R. Beckwith, and says he is forty-nine years old and is a son of William W. and Ann Beckwith.

Ann Beckwith died March 25th, 1883. Certificate of marriage is as follows: Norwalk, Huron Co., Ohio, I certify that W. W. Beckwith and Ann Herrick were lawfully joined in marriage by me, this 20th day of October, 1819, Robert S. Southgate, J. P.

On the night of March 3d, 1865, Mr. Lincoln and several members of his cabinet were in attendance at the Capitol awaiting final passage of bills by Congress in order that they might receive the presidential signature. Every one was happy at a prospect of an early re-establishment of peace, Gen. Grant having just telegraphed a glowing account of his successes, and his control of the situation. While felicitating each other on the approaching cessation of hostilities, a second dispatch was handed to Mr. Stanton from Gen. Grant. The telegram advised him of the receipt of a letter from General Lee, requesting an immediate interview, with a view to the re-establishment of peace between the two sections, in answer to which the President wrote the following dispatch, handing it to Mr. Stanton, who signed, sealed and forwarded it, which ran as follows: "The President directs me to say to you that he wishes you to have no conference with Gen. Lee, unless it be for the capitulation of Gen. Lee's army or on some minor or purely military matter. He instructs me to say, you are not to decide, discuss or confer on any political question; the President holding the decision of these questions in his own hands, and will submit them to no military conference or convention, and you are to press to the utmost of your ability, your military advantage." On the succeeding day the following dispatch was received from Gen. Grant, in cipher as follows:

CITY POINT, March 4, 1865, 4:30 P. M.

Hon. E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War:

Your dispatch of the 3d, midnight, received. I have a letter to Gen. Lee, copy of which will be sent you by to-morrow's mail. I can assure you that no act of the enemy will prevent me pressing all advantages gained to the utmost of my ability. Neither will I, under any circumstances, exceed my authority, or in any way embarrass the Government. It was because I had no right to meet Gen. Lee on the subject proposed by him that I referred the matter for instructions.

THE PERCYS.

This family derived their name from the village of Percy, near Villedieu in Normandy. They deduced their pedigree from Geoffrey, son of Manifred, a Danish chieftain, who assisted Rollo, in 912 in subjugating that principality, and acquired considerable possessions there. William de Percy accompanied the Conqueror from Normandy and obtained from him a Barony of thirty Knights fees, and became a feudal Lord of England. This William de Percy was also known by the name of "Als Gernon" or William with the whiskers; he re-founded the Abbey of St. Hilda in Yorkshire, of which his brother, Serbo de Percy, was Prior. Accompanying Duke Robert in his first crusade in 1096, he died at Mountjoy, near Jerusalem, leaving five sons and a daughter, by his wife Emma de Post, a lady of Saxon descent, whose lands were amongst those bestowed upon him by the Conqueror, and according to an ancient writer, "he wedded hyrr that was very heire to them, in discharging of his conscience." He was succeeded by his son Alan de Percy, 2d Baron, surnamed "The great Allan, he married Emma, daughter of Gilbert de Gaunt (which Gilbert was son of Baldwin, Earl of Flanders, and nephew of Queen Maud, wife of William the Conqueror), and was succeeded by his eldest son, William de Percy, at whose decease, the eldest branch of the first race of Percys from Normandy became extinct in the male line, and their great inheritance became devolved upon his Lordship's two daughters. Maude married the Earl of Warwick, who died in the Holy Land in 1184, sans issue; Agnes de Percy married Jocelaine, brother of Queen Adeliza, second wife of Henry the first, and son of Geoffrey de Bouillon, Duke of Lower Brabant, and Count of Brabant who was descended from the Emperor Charlemagne. Lady Agness who only consent to this alliance upon condition that Jocelaine should adopt either the surname or arms of Percy, the former of which, the old tradition says, he accordingly assumed and retained his paternal coat, in order to perpetuate his claim to the principality of his father, should the elder branch of the reigning family become extinct. The ancient arms of Hainault, the Lord retained, and gave his children the surname of "Perci" he left several children.

Henry the eldest son, who appears to have died before his mother, married Isabel, daughter of Adam Bruce, Lord of Skelton, by whom he had the Manor of Levington, for which he and his heirs, were to repair to Skelton Castle, every Christmas day, and to lead the lady of the Castle, from her chamber to the chapel to Mass, and thence to her chamber again, and after dining with her depart.

The family merging into the house of the Earls of Northumberland became one of the most illustrious of England. It is of this family, we have the Sir Henry Percy, so well known as "Harry Hotspur" that was killed at the battle of Shrewsbury in 1403. [Burke's Peerage of England.

Tonbridge.

Richard de Tonbridge called allso Richard de Benefactor, or Richard filius Giliberti, or Richard de Clare, eldest son of Gilbert Earl of Brion, in Normandy, was at the battle of Hastings, and was also a large landowner or chief tenant of the king's lands. [First Survey of Domesday Book.

BRUCE.

Sir Robert Brus a Noble Norman Baron, who accompanied the Conqueror from Normany, and obtained no less than 9 Lordships in the County of Yorkshire, of which Skelton Castle and Manor, was one and the chief, allso the manors of Hert and Hertness, in the Bishopric of Durham. He married first Agnes daughter of Falk Pasquall and had Adam who succeeded to the estates, and whose male line terminated in 1271, with Peter de Brus whose vaste estates reverted to his 4 sisters as coheiresses, viz. Margarette who marries Sir L. Peter Brus. Agness who married Walter Falconridge, Lucy who married John Baliol. Sir Robert Brus married secondly, Agnes Armand, a great Scottish heiress, by whom he acquired the Lordships of Anandale, which, with Hert and Hertness he bestowed upon his son Robert de Brus, of whom but little is known, save benefactions to the church. He was succeeded by his son William de Brus, who is noticed for his religious grants, he was living at the close of the 12th century, and was succeeded by his son Robert Brus, who married Isabella, daughter of David Earl of Huntington, niece of William of Scotland, and one of the sisters of John Earl of Huntington and last Count Palatinate of Durham. [Burke's Peerage of England.

FROM BLOUNT'S "FRAGMENTATIS ANTIQUITIS." LONDON, P. 432.

Hercules de Maltbiss, married Beckwith daughter of Sir William Bruce Lord of Uglebarby, descendant of Sir Robert Bruce - - a noble norman Knight of Skelton Castle Cleveland, this Sir William de Bruce appears to have inherited a considerable portion of the lands granted by William the Conqueror to his ancestor Sir Robert de Bruce Lord of Skelton Castle in Cleveland a noble norman Knight, ancestor of the Bruces of Scotland, for we find that his daughter was heiress of Uglebarby and Roxby, and manors of Beckwith & Beckwith Shaw, which are mentioned among the possessions originally granted Sir Robert de Bruce, with these possessions are mentioned lands in Lewiston or Levington which must have formed part of the inheritance of Sir William de Bruce, which was conveyed by his daughter's marriage to Sir Hercules de Malbisse, and is now possessed by the lineal descendant of Sir Hercules de Malbie, the present Col. Beckwith of Tremden, this estate is held by "Feudal Tenure" viz that the eldest son of the possessor, should hold the King's stirrups whenever his majesty may come into the north Riding of Yorkshire.

LEVINGTON CO. OF YORK.

Adam de Brus, lord of Skelton gave in marriage with his daughter Isabel to Henry de Percy, eldest son and heir of Jocelin de Lorain (ancestor to the present Duke of Northumberland), the manor of Levington, for which he and his heirs were to repair to Skelton Castle every Christmas Day, and lead the lady of that Castle from her chamber to the Chapel, to mass, and thence to her chamber again, and after dining with her to depart. (Temp Ricardus I. Collins' peerage, vol. II, p. 297; edit. 5, page 505.)

The late Woodifield Beckwith Esq, (who as well as the Editor were descendants of this portion of the Bruce family), was seized of an Estate at Knife Levington, alias Castle Levington near Gorm Co. York in 1779.

HARTLEPOOL, CO. OF DURHAM.

WHITBY CO OF YORK. P. 557.

In the fifth year of the reign of King Henry II., after the conquest of England by William Duke of Normandy, the Lord of Uglebarby, then called William de Bruce (of the family of Bruce or Brus, of Skelton Castle) founded a Chantry in the Church of Pickering, Co York to pray for his soul, his ancestors souls, and all christian souls (in which church his monument yet remains).

The lord of Snaynton, called Ralph de Percy, and a gentleman freeholder, called Allotson, did, on the 16th day of October, meet to hunt the wild boar, in a certain wood or desert called Eskdale Side: the wood or place did belong to the Abbot of the Monastery of Whitby, who was then called Sedman, and abbot of the same place.

Then the aforesaid gentlemen did meet with their hounds and boar-staves in the place aforesaid, and there found a great wild boar, and the hounds did run him very hard near the chapel and hermitage of Eskdale Side, where there was a Monk of Whitby, who was a hermit; and the boar being so hard pushed took in at the chapel door, and there laid down and died immediately, and the hermit shut the hounds out of the chapel, and kept himself at his meditation and prayers: the hounds standing at bay without, the gentlemen in the thick of the wood just behind their game, in following the cry of the hounds came to the hermitage, and found the hounds round the chapel; then came the gentlemen to the door of the chapel, and called on the hermit, who did open the door, and then they got forth, and within lay the boar dead, for which the gentlemen in a fury, because their hounds were put out of their game, run at the hermit with their boar-staves, whereof he died; then the gentlemen knowing, and perceiving that he was in peril of death, took sanctuary at Scarborough; but at that time, the abbot, being in great favour with the King, did remove them out of Sanctuary, whereby they came in danger of the law, and not privileged, but like to have the severity of the law, which was death. But the hermit, being a holy man, and being very sick, and at the point of death, sent for the abbot, and desired him to send for the gentlemen, who had wounded him to death; so doing the gentlemen came, and the hermit being sick, said, "I am sure to die of these wounds:" the abbot answered, "they shall die for it," but the hermit said, "not so, for I will freely forgive them my death, if they are content to be enjoined this penalty (penance) for the safe-guard of their souls:" the gentlemen being there present, bid him enjoin what he would, so he saved their lives; then said the hermit, "You and yours shall hold land upon (of) the abbot of Whitby and (his) successors in this manner: that upon Ascension day even, you, or some of you, shall come to the wood of Strayheads, which is in Eskdale-side, and the same day (Ascension-day at sun rising) and then shall the officer of the Abbot blow his horn, to the intent that you may know where to find him, and deliver unto you, William de Bruce, ten stakes eleven strut-stowers, and eleven yadders, to be cut with a knife of a penny price; and you Ralph de Percy shall take one and twenty of each sort, to be cut in the same manner; and you, Allotson, shall take nine of each sort, to be cut as aforesaid, and to be taken on your backs, and carried to the town of Whitby, and to be there before nine o'clock of the same day before mentioned; and at the hour of nine o'clock, if it be full sea, to cease their service, as long as till it be low water; and at nine o'clock of the same day, each of you shall set your stakes at the brim of the water, each stake a yard from another, and so yadder them with your yadders, and to stake them on each side with strut-stowers, that they stand three tides, without removing by force of the water, each of you shall make at that hour in every year, except it be full sea at that hour, which when it shall happen to come to pass the service shall cease: you shall do this to remember that you did slay me, and that you may the better call to God for mercy, repent yourselves, and do good works. The officers of Eskdale shall blow, "Out on you! Out on you! Out on you!" for this heinous crime of yours: if you or your successors refuse this service, so long as it shall not be a full sea at the hour aforesaid, you and yours shall forfeit all your lands to the abbot or his successor; this I do intreat, that you may have yourselves and goods for this service, and you to promise by your part in heaven, that it shall be done to you, and your successors as it is aforesaid;" and then the abbot said "I grant all that you have said, and will confirm it by the faith of an honest man;" then the hermit said, "My soul longeth for the Lord, and as I freely forgive these gentlemen my death, as Christ forgave the thief upon the cross" and in the presence of the Abbot and the rest, he said moreover these words "Into thy hands O Lord I commend my spirit, for thou hast redeemed me from the bonds of death, O Lord of truth." And the Abbot and the rest said, "Amen." And so (the hermit) yielded up the ghost the eighth day of December upon whose soul God have mercy Anno Domini 1160. In 1784 the service was still annually performed. [" History of Ripon."

Saville of Methley.

The family of Saville of Yorkshire, was one of the most illustrious of that County, and probably had its rise at Silston in that County, it flourished there in the 15th century. During the reign of Edward the 3rd, the family divided into two lines or branches, John of Tankersley, and Kerry of Bradley (brothers). The senior branch acquired its greatest renown, in the person of George, Marquis of Halifax. The junior branch, now of Copely and Methley is represented by the Earl of Merborough. [Burke's Commoners of England.

Ferrars of Badesley Clinton.

The sole remains of this most ancient and powerful family, illustrious for its antiquity, and the splendor of its connections, of which the powerful Earls of Derby, and the Ferrars a Feres, the chiefs. At the time of the conquest, held 200 and ten Lordships, in 14 counties of England, besides the castle of Flatbury, the principal seat of the Earldom. After the forfeiture of the Earldom the castle of Chartloy in Staffordshire, inherited from Agnes daughter and coheiress of Ranulph Earl of Chester, became the seat of the principal male line, extinct on the death of William Earl of Ferrars of Chartloy, in the time of Henry the 6th, The representative of the family then devolved upon the Ferrers of Tamworth in 1680. The present family of Baddoes,—Clinton, succeeded as chief of this house. The Castle of Tamworth came into the family as follows by marriage into the house of Marmion. In the early times of Normandy, the family of Marmion, Lords of Foulemaye, were highly distinguished, Robert de Marmion, Lord of Foulemaye, a distinguished follower of the Conqueror, obtained a grant of Castle and Town of Tamworth, and allso of the manor of Scrivelhaye in Lincolnshire, one or both of these noble possessions, were held by the honorable service of being the royal champions, as the ancestors of the Marmions had been in the Dukes of Normandy in France.

After the castle and Lordship had been held by four successive Barons, from Robert de Marmion, the family in the male line became entirely extinct, upon the death of Philip de Marmion who lived in the 25th year of the reign of Edward the 1st. he dying without male issue, was succeeded in his castle of Tamworth by Alexander de Treville, his (Alexander's) descendents in the reign of Richard the 1st. claimed by the tenor of the castle of Tamworth, the office of royal champion, and to do service appertaining thereto, but this office was adjudged to Sir John Dimmock, to whom the Manor of Scrivelhaye, had descended by marriage with another co-heiress of Robert de Marmion, and it remains in that family, whose representative is hereditary Champion of England to the present day. The family and possessions of the Treville's, merged into that of the Earls of Ferrars. This old custom, as it did at one time, pertain to the heredditery domain; once in the possession of the family, maybe of interest, and was as follows, copied from an old record, in the British Museum. At the time of the coronation of King Richard the second, Sir Baldwin Treville, Knight, Lord of Tamworth grandson of Sir Alexander de Treville, exhibited his claim to be the Kings Champion on that day, and to do the same appertaining to that office, by reason of his tenure of his Castle of Tamworth, viz. To ride completely armed, and challenge any who would gainsay the royal and legal right of the King to be crowned. Which service the Barons de Marmion, his ancestors, Lords of that castle, had theretofore performed. but this service passing into the family of Scrivelhaye of Lincoln shire, which had descended to him, by an heir female of Sir Thomas Ludlow, Knight, husband of Joanne, the youngest daughter of, and coheiress of Philip de Marmion, the last Lord Marmion of Tamworth, since when, the Dimmocks had ever retained the honor, now for over 400 years. The said Dimmocks had for his fee, one of the best coursers in the Kings stable, with the Kings saddle and harness appertaining to the same horse. He had likewise one of the best armors in the Kings armory, for his own body, and all that belonged thereto. At the coronation of King Charles the second, Sir Edward Dimmock, the Kings champion, by right of his Manor of Scrivelhaye, entered Westminster Hall, a little before was served, on a goodly steed, armed at all points, in rich armor, and having a plume of blue feathers in his helmet, he then made a stand for some time, then way being made by the Kings Marshall, he advanced with his retinue, in the following order.

Herald.

The Earl Marshall. on horseback	The Champion. on horseback.	The Lord High Constable. on horseback.

The Herald then proclaimed the challenge as follows. If any person, of what degree soever, high or low, shall deny or gainsay, our Sovereign Lord King Charles the second, King of England, Scotland & Ireland, defender of the faith, son and next heir to our Sovereign Lord King Charles the first, the last King of England, deceased, to be the right heir, to the imperial crown of the realms of England, or that he ought not to enjoy the same. here is his champion who saith that he lieth, and is a false trator, being ready in person to combat with him, and in this quarrell will adventure his life against him on whatever day soever, he shall be appointed. The champion, thereupon threw his glove upon the ground, which lying some time, and nobody takeing it up, it was delivered to him by the Herald. Then all advanced to the middle of the hall, where the throwing of the gauntlet was repeated, and proclamation again made, upon the return of the gauntlet, all advanced to the foot of the throne, where once again the same performance was gone through with, and the Herald for the third time, proclaimed the challenge, this being done, the King drank to the health of the Champion, by takeing a sip from a gilt cup with a cover, the cup was then handed to the Champion, who after three reverances drank the contents, and retained the cup, as his fee. then reigning his horse backwards out of the hall.

[Burke's Commoners of England.
The family of Baskervilles owe their origin to Sir John de Baskerville, grantee of a moiety of Old Wittington, from Robert de Carmoyle in 1266, and that estate has ever since been in the family. In 1758, John Baskerville married the heiress of Clegg of Gayton, County Cheshire, and changed his name to Clegg of Gayton.

A daughter of Sir John Baskerville married Sir William Beckwith of Clint, Knight. [Burke's Landed Gentry of England.

Bray of Shere.

Sir Robert Bray lived during the time of Richard the 1st, and founded the family, whose ancient seat was at Haslerton, in County Northumberland.

After the battle of Bosworth, Sir Reginald Bray, the devoted adherent of the King, discovered the crown in a thorn bush, and in memory he bore for his badge, a thorn with a crown in the middle thereof. Shere was granted Sir Reginald for his services. [Burke's Commoners of England.

Woodifield of Trimden.

The Woodifields, or anciently called Weedifields, of the parish of Bishop Middleham, where the name was once exceedingly numerous, many of them died in the great plague, a visitation in the year 1597, Nicholas Woodifield, then tenant of a small farm at Mainworth, is said to have come suddenly rich by the following strange coincidence. During the hay harvest, having gone to a neighboring well to procure a draft of water, he let his rake drop, which striking something at the bottom of the well, that gave out a metallic sound. He immediately sent his servant girl home, and taking off his brogues, contrived to make two purses of them, which, having descended into the well, he filled with broad pieces of gold, with this money, so unexpectedly acquired, he is said to have purchased the manor of Trimden. This estate by maternal descent, is the property of William Beckwith, Esq. [Burke's Landed Gentry of England.

Palms of Naburn.

This ancient family was anciently seated in the County of Somerset, and as far back as the twelfth century, it is found in alliance with the great Somerset House of St. Maur, which had summons to Parliament in the reign of Edward the third. The estate of Naburn, in the east riding of Yorkshire, was acquired by marriage in 1225, has regularly descended from father to son, since that year.

Manfred Palmes, living about the sixth year of King Stephen, anno domini, 1140, held lands in Trimten Dean, County Somerset. Sir William Palmes, 9th Lord of Naburn, living in 1335, married for his second wife Claricia, daughter of Thomas Fairfax and Margarette de Malebisse. After the death of Sir William, his widow Claricia married Sir William de Malebisse. The grandson of Sir William Palmes, Francis Palmes, Esq., had numerous issue, his fifth child married Thomas de Malebisse, Esq., of Ancaster-Malebisse, and his sixth child, Isabella married John de Malebisse of Ancaster, brother of the preceding. Arms gu. 3 fleur-de-lis a chief vaire quartering the ensign of

Charlton of Shropshire and Plumpton of County York. Crest a hand holding a Palm branch, motto "Ut Palma Justis."

Palms of Lyndsay.

This branch of the Palmes family was seated at Lyndsay, in the County of York, and at Ashwell in Rutlandshire, was founded by George Palmes, Sergeant at Law, time of Henry the 8th, was second son of William Palmes, Esq., of Naburn. The granddaughter of George Palmes married Thomas Beckwith, Esq. of Clint, near Ripley and died in 1575. [Burke's Commoners of England.

Fairfax of Askam & C.

This ancient family, originally named from the "fair locks" of its sons, "Feax" meaning hair in Saxon, was established before the conquest, at Torcestor, County Northumberland, and removed their seat into Yorkshire, in the vicinity of York, in the year 1205. Richard Fairfax held the lands of Askam and was succeeded by his son William Fairfax, Lord of Askam, in the time of King John and Henry 3d, his grandson William Fairfax, Bailiff of Yorkshire, purchased in 1249, from Peter de Brus, the manor of Walton, in the west riding of Yorkshire, and made that his residence. This Fairfax, 6th in descent from William, lived in the reign of Edward the 2d and married Margarette, daughter of John Lord de Malebisse, and who was eventually heiress of Sir William de Malebisse, by which lady he had two daughters, one married Martin, and the other, Claricia, married William Palmes, Esq., of Naburn. The family is allied by marriage to the Earls of Buchan and the Earl of Northumberland. William 9th, Viscount Fairfax, married Isabel, the eldest daughter and heiress of Thomas Beckwith, Esq., of Acton (brother of George Beckwith of Maryland).

The present family of Fairfax of Seeton are descended from a younger son of Richard Fairfax, chief justice during the time of Henry the 6th, as well as the Fairfax's of Denton. Baron Fairfax of Cameron in Scotland (1627), represented an elder line, is represented by descendants in Virginia.

Arms arg. 3 bears gemelles gu. surrounded by a lion rampant sa. on a cap of maintenance, a lion passant regardant sa. motto. Je leferay durant ma vie. The principal seat of this family was at Gilling Castle 18 miles from York. [Burke's Landed Gentry of England.

POLKINGTON OF NETHER BRADLEY AND CHEVET CHASE.

An ancient family of repute, before the Conquest. The estate of Polkington appears to have remained in the family until the ruin of the elder branch, in consequence of Sir Thomas Polkington having taken part against Henry the 7th and Richard the 3d, at the Battle of Bosworth. The present house is descended from Sir John Polkington, 2d son of Robert, and brother of the unfortunate Sir Thomas; his son Robert is of Bradley, in the County of York, he died in 1447, and was ancestor of Sir Arthur, the first Baronet.

The crest of the family is a mower of parti-color argent and gules, said to have been assumed as a disguise by Sir Thomas, when escaping from the battlefield of Bosworth, and adopted as a crest in memory of the event. Sir Thomas fought against four knights of his own family, who were on the side of Richard the 3d. [Burke's Commoners of England.

Tancred of Boroughbridge.

At an early date and probably not long after the Conquest the ancestors of this family were seated at Boroughbridge, which appears to have been ever since one of the residences of this family of Tancred; the present representative is Thomas, the 7th Baronet. [Burke's Commoners of England.

Lumley of Lumley Castle.

This very ancient family is of Anglo-Saxon origin, seated in the County of Durham, since the Conquest. Luilpt, the recorded ancestor, lived before the year 1080. The elder line became extinct on the death of John Lord Lumley in 1609. Upon a visit to Lumley Castle by James the 1st, in 1606, James Lumley, Bishop of Durham, regaled the King with a prolix account of the antiquity of the family, until the King becoming wearied exclaimed "Oh mon gang na father let me digest the knowledge I ha gained for I did not ken Adam's name was Lumley." [Burke's Commoners of England.

Neville of Buling.

Of a younger branch of the Nevilles. Sir Edward Neville obtained the castle and Barony of Aberganny, and estate of Buling, by marriage with the heiress of Beauchamp, during the reign of Henry 6th. The present family are descended from them, having been Barons previous to the erection of the Earldom. Buling has long been deserted by the family, whose principal seat is at Sheffield. [Burke's Landed Gentry.

Chalmondely.

Descended from the Barons of Malpas, in the reign of King John. The younger branches are Chalmondely of York, extinct in 1641. Chalmondely of Brandley, since the extinction of the Whitby branch, is the only representative of the Yorkshire Chalmondelys. [Burke's Landed Gentry.

Wyvell of Constable Barton.

This ancient Norman family is said to have descended from Sir Humphrey de Wyvell, who lived at the time of the Conquest, and whose descendants are seated at Slingsby, in County York. The more modern part of the pedigree begins with Robert Wyvell of Ripon, whose son was of Little Barton, in the reign of Henry the 8th; from thence the family emigrated to Constable Barton, about the end of the reign of James the 1st. During the civil wars of the 17th century, the Wyvells were distinguished by their loyalty, and consequent sufferings, in the royal cause. An elder line of the family, on whom the Baronetcy was created in 1611, has descendants said to be resident in Maryland, U. S. Arms gu. 3 chevreuls interlaced vaire and a chief or. founded on the coat of Fitz-Hugh, and may be taken as proof of high antiquity. [Burke's Landed Gentry.

Grimstone of Grimstonegarth.

Sylvester of Grimstone, standard bearer and Chamberlain of William the 1st, of Grimstone in the parish of Garten, is claimed as ancestor of this venerable family, who have, ever since the period of the Conquest, resided at the place, from whence the name is derived. Younger branches of the Grimstone were seated in Norfolk and Essex, besides the Grimstones Gershamberg, Earls of Vellum, all now extinct in the male line. Arma arg. on a fess sa. 3 mullets of 6 points or. pierced gu. This coat was borne by Monsieur Girard de Grimstone, in the reign of Richard the second. [Burke's Landed Gentry of England.

Redman of Hammerton.

One of the most ancient families in the North of England, descended from Richard de Hammerton, who lived in the 26th year of the reign of Henry the second, anno 1170. From Hammerton, the original seat, the family removed to Hellefield, acquired by marriage with an heiress of Knolles, during the reign of Edward the third. The castle or pell was built in the time of Henry the seventh. The Hammertons were engaged in the northern rebellion in 1531, and thereby Sir Stephen Hammerton lost his head, and the family their estates, which were restored to the male representative of the family in the third year of the reign of Elizabeth, by a munificent settlement made by John Redman, who became possessed of the property by marriage with the Hammertons. [Burke's Landed Gentry of England.

Boynton of Barristen.

Bartholomew de Barristen, living at the beginning of the twelfth century, stands at the head of the pedigree. Barriston came from Sir Malyn Del Sie, in the fifth century. During the civil wars, Sir Mathew Boynton, the head of the family, was one of the gentlemen chiefly trusted in Yorkshire by parliament. [Burke's Landed Gentry of England.

Watterton of Walton.

Watterton in the County of Lincoln, was the original seat and from thence was the name derived. Sir John Watterton was Esquire of the body to Henry the fourth and comptroller of the household of Henry the fifth and sixth. He was succeeded by his brother Sir Robert of Methlre, which he inherited with his wife, Cicily, the daughter and heiress of Robert Fleming of Woodhall, in that parish, and where his house is still preserved. The present family are descendants of a younger son of this house (the elder line being extinct) who married Catherine Boughe, heiress of Walton, about the time of Richard the second. [Burke's Landed Gentry of England.

GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE, 1812.

1812. June 1st, 1812. The splendid ceremony of installing the twenty-three knights lately added to the Order of the Bath, took place early in the morning, the Horse and Foot Guards took their stations about ten o'clock; the persons connected with the ceremony met in the House of Lords, and at eleven the procession commenced in the following order, under a temporary boarded covering, matted and bounded on each side by strong wooden railings; it extended from the door of the House of Lords (Princes' chamber) to the S. E. door of the Abbey (poets' corner); four ushers with wands ornamented with ribbons, four drummers and fifers, and eight trumpeters in their full uniforms. Esquires of the knights elect, and the proxies of those who did not attend, the latter wore the sack coat and were girt with the sword of the order. They carried the mantle on their right arms, and walked bare headed. Esquires of the knights who had already received the honor of knighthood, wore black velvet caps. The knights of the order, superbly dressed in their proper costume, and all wearing white satin hats, ornamented with white plumes. The Duke of York, grand master, followed by his aide-de-camps in full uniform. Then came several heralds and a party of Javelin-men, by whom the procession was closed. When the procession reached the chapel, the knights took their seats in their respective stalls, and under their banners, the proxies and the esquires in their proper places, they made profound obeisance to the throne or stall set apart for the sovereign and which (the Prince Regent having declined honoring the ceremonial with his presence) was of course vacant. Close to it was the stall of the Duke of York, who, as acting grand master, presided on this occasion. The ceremony finished, the procession returned in the same order in which they had approached the abbey. The Princesses Augusta and Sophia, the Princess Charlotte of Wales and the Duchess of York after the ceremony dined with the Prince Regent in company with the Duke of Kent, Cumberland, and of Cambridge. The Order of the Bath had on this occasion been extended to fifty knights, including the sovereign and grand master. Among the names of the new knights is that of Sir George Beckwith.

GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE.

1812. May 15th, at the trial of John Bellingham for murder, he confessed to having bought the pistol that done the deed at Mr. Beckwith's in Fleet Street.

1786. February 17th, died at York, Mr. Thomas Beckwith, F. A. S. painter, whose collections for the city of York and county were both numerous and valuable, was descended from a very ancient family in that county, of every branch of which he had preserved copious genealogies. As to his own line, suffice to say, that his father was a respectable attorney in the West Riding, who left several children. Two of his sons were led to his own profession, to one of whom (Jonah still living) the world is much obliged for an enlarged edition of Blount's "Fragmenta Antiquitatis" printed at York, in October, 1784. What other children survived his father is unknown to the writer of this article, except Thomas, the loss of whom he sincerely regrets, and to whom the following tribute is due.

Mr. Beckwith served his time as a house painter, to a very ingenious man, Mr. George Fleming of Wakefield, from whom he derived his skill in drawing and living, as well as imbibed a love of antiquity. To these, Mr. B. added heraldic and genealogical knowledge, to all which he applied himself in his leisure hours, with such great and unwearied zeal, that his collections, together with the works of his own hands, became at length very considerable; for as he was well known to and still more respected by a numerous provincial acquaintance, he had frequent opportunities of making additions to it. With regard to Mr. B.'s merits as a portrait painter, the writer is not competent to judge; but if Mr. B. did not use his palette much, yet was his pencil in constant employment; for there was hardly an object that struck him as a curiosity, particularly if an antique, of which he did not make a drawing, and scarcely a church or a ruin in the vicinity of the place of his abode, that he did not picture, either in pencil or water colors. A few years ago, Mr. B. obtained a patent for the sole making and vending what may be called hardened crayons, which would bear the knife, and carry a point like a pencil, but whether his ingenuity was rewarded with a success the writer is ignorant. It was about the same time that he was elected a fellow of the society of Antiquane, London. But what contributed most to make Mr. B. known to those who were unacquainted with him in any other branch, was his extensive information in the genealogical line, in so much that he has had the arrangement of numberless pedigree for some of the best families in the north of England; which he was enabled to do from visitation books, and other authentic documents, which fell into his hands; added to these he possessed much intelligence, respecting the antiquity and descents of the principal families in the inland adjacent countries, and of various others and more remote from him. If the world in general was, in a great measure, a stranger to Mr. B.'s public merits, it may be partly attributed to his own modesty and diffidence, to which truth, many readers of this little account will be ready to enjoin their testimony, and agree, further, that his indefatigable industry in collecting, was only exceeded by his obliging willingness to impart any information which he had received. In the search after antiquities, Mr. B. seemed to have made the more obscure and minuter history of York, and its environs his peculiar study, in so much that he had prepared and nearly completed a little work which would be very acceptable to many of his friends, viz.: "A walk in and about the city of York," on the plan of Mr. Gosling's "Walk in and about the city of Canterbury."

The whole of his collections, we understand, is speedily intended for sale; but it is much to be wished, in particular, that the above piece might be accepted, and placed in proper hands for publication, and in general, that the rest of his manuscript may fall among such purchasers, who will be as liberal in their communications, as was the late worthy proprietor. Mr. B. died a widower, leaving one son, Dr. Ray Beckwith, a physician at Whitby, and one daughter, unmarried.

1836. September 7th, at Shrewsbury, the Rev. Henry Beckwith to Ann Rose, second daughter of the late Rev. John Eyton.

Dr. Gelley's Book, "A visit to the valleys of Piedmont" fell into the hands of a British retired officer, Colonel Beckwith, who had lost a leg at the battle of Waterloo, which suggested an object for one who was loth to fall at the age of twenty-six into enforced idleness. Col. Beckwith visited the valleys and was painfully struck by the squallor and ignorance of a people who had had such a glorious past. He settled among them, and for thirty-five years devoted himself to their welfare, he married a Voudois peasant girl, and lived among the people, and established no fewer than twelve schools. Moreover he brought back the Italian language, which had been displaced by the French in the service of the Voudois church, and in 1849, built a church for them at Turin. He lived in La Tour till his death, in 1862, and the name of their English benefactor is still revered by the simple folk of the valleys whom he did so much to civilize. [Encyclopedia Britannica.

GEORGE BECKWITH, OF CALVERT COUNTY, MARYLAND, EMIGRANT.

The privy-councillors and lords of manors formed the class in which we find the germ of a nobility, below them was a considerable number of planters, who bore the title of "gentlemen," as large a class, in Maryland, as in any other Anglo-American colony, and were held in the very highest esteem. Many who had come under an indenture, performed an honorable service, and then received their discharge, with a comfortable outfit. The principal planters were also the merchants, who traded with London and the other great ports of England. Ferries over streams and rivers, were erected by the government, and kept by the most respectable colonists, the duties in most instances being performed by their deputies. Tobacco was the most common currency of the province, one pound of it in 1650 was worth about three pence, in English money. The most striking features upon the face of society was the plantations, upon them was held some of the earliest courts and councils and governors, privy councilors and county judges, were all of them planters. [Davis' Day Star of Freedom.

THE PROTESTANT DECLARATION.

The declaration and certificate of William Stone, Esq., lieutenant of the province of Maryland, by commission from the Right Honorable, the Lord Baltimore, Lord Proprietary thereof, and of Captain Brice, Mr. Thomas Hatton and Captain Vaughan of his said lordship's council there and of divers of the Burgesses now met as the assembly there, and other protestant inhabitants of the said province, made the 17th day of April, anno domini one thousand six hundred and fifty.

We, the said lieutenant, council, burgesses and other protestants, inhabitants above mentioned, whose names are hereunto subscribed, do declare and certify to all persons whom it may concern, that according to an act of assembly here, and several other strict injunctions, and declarations by his said lordship, for that purpose, made and provided, we do here enjoy all fitting and convenient freedom and liberty in the exercise of our religion, under his lordship's government and interest, and that none of us are anyways troubled or molested, for or by reason thereof, within his said lordship's province.

SIR MARMADUKE BECKWITH OF VIRGINIA, EMIGRANT.

Sir Marmaduke Beckwith, Baronet, born January, 1687; was a merchant and clerk of the peace in Virginia; he married and had issue: Tarpley, who died in England December 29th, 1748; Marmaduke, living in Virginia in 1771; a daughter living in 1748; Sir Jonathan Beckwith is the present baronet. [Burke's Landed Gentry.

Sir Marmaduke Beckwith, county clerk of Richmond Co., Va., from 1708 to 1748; T. Tarpley was his deputy and successor. [Virginia County Clerks.

Roused by danger and alarm at attempts, foreign and domestic, to reduce the people of this country to an abject and detestable slavery, by destroying their fair and happy constitution of government, under which they have hitherto lived, we who subscribe to this paper, have associated and do bind ourselves to each other, to God, and to our country, by the firmest ties that religion and virtue can frame, most sacredly and punctually to stand by, and with our lives and fortunes, to support and defend each other, in the durance of the following articles.

First we declare all due allegiance and obedience to our lawful Sovereign George the third, King of Great Britain, and we determine to the utmost of our power, to preserve the laws, the peace and good order of this colony, as far as is consistent with the preservation of our constitutional rights and liberties.

Secondly: As we know it to be the rightful birthright of every British subject (and of the People of Virginia, as being such), founded in reason, law and compact, that he cannot be, legally tried, but by his peers, and that he cannot be taxed, but by the consent of a Parliament, in which he is represented by persons, chosen by the people, and who themselves, pay a part of the tax, they impress on others. If therefore any person or persons shall attempt, by any action, or proceeding, to deprive the colony of those fundamental rights, we will immediately consider him or them, as the most dangerous enemy or enemies of the community, and we will go to any extremity, not only to prevent the success of any attempts, but to stigmatize and punish the offenders.

Thirdly: As the stamp act, does absolutely direct the property of the people to be taken from them, without their consent, expressed by their representatives, and as in many cases, it deprives the British American subject of his right of trial by jury, we determine at every hazard; in regard to danger and death, we will exact, and exert every faculty to prevent the execution of the stamp act, in every instance whatsoever within the colony. And every abandoned wretch who shall be so lost to virtue and public good, as wickedly to contribute to the introduction, or fixture of the stamp act in this colony by using stamp paper, or by any other means, we will with the utmost expedition, convince all such profligates, that immediate danger, and disgrace shall attend their prostitute purposes.

Fourthly: That the last article may be most surely and effectually executed, we engage to each other, that whenever it shall be known, to any of this association, that any person is so conducting himself, as to favor the introduction of the stamp act, that immediate notice shall be given to as many of the association as possible and that every individual so informed, shall with expedition, repair to a place of meeting, to be appointed, as near the scene of action as possible.

Fifthly: Each associate shall do his true endeavor to obtain as many signers to this association as he possibly can.

Sixthly: If any attempts shall be made on the liberty or property of any associater, for any action or thing, done in consequence of this agreement, we do most solemnly bind ourselves by the most sacred engagement of those who have entered thereunto at the risk of our lives and fortunes, to restore such associate to his liberty, and to protect him in the enjoyment of his property.

In testimony of the good faith with which we resolve to execute the orders of this association, we have this 27th day of February, 1766, in Virginia, put our hands and seals hereto.

MATHEW BECKWITH, OF CONNECTICUT, EMIGRANT.

Mathew Beckwith came over with Mr. Winthrope, in 1635, and became temporarily a settler at Saybrook Point. [Connecticut Records.

Mathew Beckwith resided in Hartford in 1645, on lot number ten on Main Street.

Plaintiff in a case, before the particular court in 1642, also plaintiff in a case in 1644.

Mathew Marvin sued Mathew Beckwith for slander, and Beckwith made a public confession of his slandering him, and the fine was remitted by the court, and the plaintiff, Mathew Beckwith made free in 1658.

Stephen Beckwith (?) defendant in a case at Hartford, 1649.

Stephen Beckwith (?) was at Hartford in 1649.

Nathaniel Beckwith, of Haddam, died in 1716, and left Sarah his widow, with an estate worth £269. His children were, Job, Nathaniel, Jerusha, Sarah, Joseph and Patience.

Nathaniel, of Lyme, was appointed by the court guardian of the children of Nathaniel, of Haddam, deceased. It is probable the two Nathaniels, above, were the sons of Mathew and Stephen Beckwith, brothers, who were early settlers in Hartford, neither of whom appear to have died there. Mathew was the owner of part of a vessel. [Hinman's Connecticut Settlers.

killing of a wolf within its bounds. In 1673, Mathew Beckwith claimed bounty for killing two wolves. [Connecticut Records.

Elizabeth Rodgers, daughter of Mathew Griswold, was granted a divorce from her husband, John Rogers, the founder of the Rogerine Quakers, October 12th, 1676; they were married October 17th, 1670. Shortly afterward she married Mathew Beckwith (2) she bore children to each husband.

About this time 1703, Rogers made a rash attempt to regain his divorced wife, then united to Mathew Beckwith, a writ was issued against him in January, 1703, on complaint of Beckwith charging him with laying hands on her, declaring she was his wife, and threatening Beckwith, that he would have her in spite of him, all of which Rogers confessed to be true, but defended on the plea that she was really his wife. [Connecticut Records.

In county court, June, 1703, Mathew Beckwith, Sr., appeared in court and swore his Majesty's peace against John Rogers for that he was in fear of his life from him. [Connecticut Records.

Between 1660 and 1664 Mould and Coit constructed the "Speedwell, Hopewell and Endeavor," which were called "Barques," ranging from twelve to twenty ton, and in value from £50 to £82. They were built respectively for Thomas Bebee, William Keeney and Mathew Beckwith, but like other movable property of that day, often changed owners. "The Endeavor" made several voyages to the West Indies, Robert Girard and Samuel Chester commanders, and was sold in Barbadoes (April, 1666) for 2,000 pounds of sugar. [Connecticut Records.

The master of a vessel was generally part owner of both cargo and craft, and not unfrequently was his own factor, agent and tradesman. In the small coasters, especially, the master or skipper was entirely independent of orders. He went from place to place, chaffing and bartering, often changing his course and prolonging his stay on his own responsibility. New London, before 1700, was as much noted for her coasting vessels and skippers as of late years for her fine fleet of smacks and smack men. Among the early planters who were of this class, is mentioned Mathew Beckwith and others. [Connecticut Records.

Hartford, May 16th, 1649, Richard Fellows, plaintiff vs. Stephen Beckwith (?) defendant, man action of debt and damages, 30 shillings. [Connecticut Records.

The parish of Tuling Co., Essex, England, sent over Thomas Beckwith, a poor child in 1645. [Connecticut Records.

Parish of Tuling sent over to Mr. Weld £5 for Thomas Beckwith, a poor child sent over, for which he paid him when his time was out £6, 5, 0, as his acquittance shows, dated February 4th, 1645. [Connecticut Records.

Mathew Beckwith and others of the name were often called Becket while in Branford, and were also called Bicket, and the Stephen Beckwith (?) of Norwalk, in 1654, removed, but came back again after 1671, was the Stephen Becket, age eleven years, that came over from Ipswich, on board the Francis, in 1634, in charge of the Rev. Richard Pepper, who after a few years at Roxbury, returned to Conn., probably for that colony, was evidence of his apprentice in 1649. [Caulkins' History of New London.

Mathew Marvin and Mary Beckwith his wife, of Loisburg, whom he married April 20th, 1732, both had the small-pox taken from a transient person, who came to their house, they were quarantined, and their house turned into a hospital. [Public Records of Connecticut.

and many others, and the deed was signed by Robert Treat, Dep. Gov. [Public Records of Connecticut.

Mathew Beckwith, his death being sudden, and the result of an accident, a jury was summoned, who gave their verdict, "that he came to his death by mistaking his way on a dark night and falling from a cliff of rocks." His estate was valued at £393. He left wife Elizabeth, and children, Mathew, John, Joseph, Benjamin, and two daughters, widows, the relicts of Robert Girard and Benjamin Grant, both of whom were mariners, and had probably perished at sea. No other children are mentioned in the brief record of the settlement of the estate; but Nathaniel Beckwith of Lyme may upon supposition be included among his sons. Mathew Junior, like his father, and most of the family, was a seaman. The births of his two eldest children, Mathew and John, are registered in Guildford, where he probably married and resided for a time. The next three, James, Jonah and Prudence, are on record at New London, and three more, Elizabeth, Ruth and Sarah in Lyme, where he fixed his abode in 1677. These were by his first wife. His second wife was Elizabeth, relict of Peter Pratt, by whom he had one daughter, named Griswold, all these children are named in his will except Sarah. He died June 4th, 1727.

Joseph and Nathaniel Beckwith, sons of Mathew Sr., settled in Lyme; John and Benjamin, in New London. John Beckwith, in a deposition presented in court in 1740, stated that he had lived at Niantic Ferry for seventy years. He is the ancestor of the Waterford Beckwiths. [Caulkins' History of New London, Conn.

Land for the site of a meeting house, and for a burial place adjoining was given to the Society (Chesterfield) by Jonathan Lattimer in 1773, at which time, it is probable that the meeting house was built and opened for service. Jesse Beckwith was one of the principal promoters of the undertaking. [Caulkins' History of New London.

About the year 1748, a Baptist church was organized at the West Farms, in Niantic District of New London, now Waterford; Nathan Howard was ordained elder and John Beckwith deacon. [Caulkins' History of New London.

Lyme, Conn., December 6th, 1787. Last Friday a guard under the command of Andrew Griswold, stationed at Lyme, discovered a whale boat, in a fresh water pond near Black Point, and suspecting it came from Long Island, they set a guard of five men over the boat, and the night after, four others of the guard, with Ensign Griswold, went toward the house of the noted Elisha Beckwith. One of the party named Noah Lister advanced faster than the rest, and was challenged by Beckwith's wife, who was near the house, this alarmed ten men, who were in the house well armed, and they immediately surged upon and made Lester a prisoner, and carried him into the house, and soon after the other four of the guard, came to the house (not knowing that Lester was a prisoner) and went directly in, where they discovered the ten men in arms, a scuffle ensued between them, and after some time the guard secured six of them, among whom was Elisha Beckwith, the other four made their escape into the woods, but they all except one were taken next day. They came in the whale boat from Long Island, and were in command of Thomas Smith, formerly of Middletown, who had a captain's commission under the British King. Elisha Beckwith went off with the enemy, the 6th of September last, when they made their descent on the place. The above culprits are secure in Norwich Gaol. [Public Records of Connecticut.

Hartford, May, 1716. Expedition to Cape Britton, journal of Rev. Adajah Bidwell, chaplain of the fleet.
